

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A photocatalytic member which does not undergo heat treatment is provided. A photocatalyst layer is formed on the surface of a substrate through the intermediary of an undercoat layer. The main component of the undercoat layer is a crystalline zirconium compound, the photocatalyst layer is constituted of a crystalline phase, and the substrate has a low heat resistant element.